Last Call for User's Conference Registration

Tuesday, July 22nd, 2008 at 3:30pm -- Sam Beresford

The bad news -- July 15th, the registration deadline for the 2008 Cascade Server User's Conference, has come and gone.

The good news -- we still have five three two one room left!

Yep, that's it. When we first decided to hold this year's User's Conference at the Georgia Tech Hotel and Conference Center, we reserved a fairly conservative number of rooms. Along the way, as the registrations came pouring in and demand increased by the week, our friendly sales manager at the GTHCC graciously accomodated our requests for more rooms. And then some more rooms. And then a few more rooms after that.

Recently though, our luck ran out. We've reserved all the rooms we can. After these ones are gone, we'll only be able to guarantee day rate admission and offer recommendations for other comparable hotels in the area. As for rooms at the GTHCC, however, this is your last call. If you're interested, please e-mail Uran Piedra at uran.piedra@hannonhill.com for details.
