Hannon Hill Welcomes New Team Members

Tuesday, January 29th, 2008 at 1:00pm -- David Cummings

The new year has brought some new faces to Hannon Hill, so we'd like to introduce our four newest team members who have joined us throughout January: Chris Armistead, Dan Cuning, Laura Folio, and Michael Thompson.

Chris Armistead has joined Hannon Hill as our Product Coordinator. Chris is a graduate of the University of Georgia and has experience working for King & Spalding, LLP (one of the preeminent law firms in the South) as a project coordinator and KnowledgeStorm as a communications specialist and prospector. At Hannon Hill, Chris will serve as an internal marketing coordinator on the Cascade Server product and will be a resource for many Hannon Hill teams.

Dan Cuning is our newest Software Engineer for Cascade Server. Dan grew up in Peachtree City, Georgia before attending Georgia Tech, where he graduated in 2004 with a Bachelor of Science in Computer Science with a specialization in Graphics and Visualization. After graduating, he moved to Honolulu, Hawaii where he worked for a small software company doing government contract work. Although asked frequently, Dan does not know how to surf, but he does enjoy watching others try. Dan will be programming as a member of the Cascade Server and new product development teams. Dan's work will focus on User Interface design: making the products intuitive and powerful.

Laura Folio joins us as a Marketing Coordinator. Laura graduated from Florida State University and has spent the past two years working in public relations and event planning, including project work with the Chick-fil-A Bowl. Laura will help promote the Pardot product line by coordinating branding efforts, online communications, and events. As a part of the marketing team, she will also manage clients' implementations.

As a Project Coordinator, Michael J. Thompson will manage services projects on the Pardot product line and work with clients to determine requirements and manage internal projects to meet deliverables on time. He will also work with the Marketing team to help coordinate and promote the Pardot product line through writing blogs, press releases and marketing communications. Michael is a 2006 graduate of Auburn University. Before joining Pardot, Michael worked in the PR industry for a firm in Atlanta and continues to do freelance writing for local and national publications.

We welcome our latest additions to the Hannon Hill team and wish continued success in their latest career endeavors.
