Automatic Page Copies

Daniel Horwitz, Sr. Web Engineer, ProHealth Care

Tuesday, September 23rd, 2008 at 10:30am

ProHealth Care, like many organizations, has content that appears in multiple places within their web site. In order to maintain consistency of this content, only one copy should ever be edited, and the changes replicated throughout the site. In this session, Daniel Horwitz, Sr. Web Engineer, demonstrates how to do this using custom metadata to define all the places that the content should appear in the web site, then using a publish trigger that copies the policy to all its locations in the web site and publishes all of the copies.
